- Albemarle Regional Health Services/Pasquotank Health Department

September 30, 2011 from 8:00 - 10:30 am

- Chowan County Extension Office

Part of the North Carolina AHEC Program

About this workshop

This workshop is designed to highlight the impact on human and animal health surrounding bites and enhance general rabies awareness amongst physicians, veterinarians, animal control officers, shelter workers, and others interested in this public health issue. Important information regarding prevention strategies and local partnership opportunities will also be presented.

Objectives

- ◆ Discuss why there is a large legal framework for one disease
- ◆ Describe the epidemiology of rabies in NC
- ◆ Identify the individual roles and responsibilities of animal owners, bite victims, animal control officers, physicians and veterinarians when dealing with rabies exposures
- ◆ Discuss the basic principles of rabies exposure risk assessment to ensure people exposed receive appropriate care
